

Contents

Acknowledgements	iii
Preface	iv
1 Introduction to Microarray Data Analysis Werner Dubitzky, Martin Granzow, C. Stephen Downes, Daniel Berrar	1
2 Data Pre-Processing Issues in Microarray Analysis Nicholas A. Tinker, Laurian S. Robert, Gail Butler, Linda J. Harris	47
3 Missing Value Estimation Olga G. Troyanskaya, David Botstein, Russ B. Altman	65
4 Normalization Norman Morrison and David C. Hoyle	76
5 Singular Value Decomposition and Principal Component Analysis Michael E. Wall, Andreas Rechtsteiner, Luis M. Rocha	91
6 Feature Selection in Microarray Analysis Eric P. Xing	110
7 Introduction to Classification in Microarray Experiments Sandrine Dudoit and Jane Fridlyand	132
8 Bayesian Network Classifiers for Gene Expression Analysis Byoung-Tak Zhang and Kyu-Baek Hwang	150

9	Classifying Microarray Data Using Support Vector Machines Sayan Mukherjee	166
10	Weighted Flexible Compound Covariate Method for Classifying Microarray Data Yu Shyr and KyungMann Kim	186
11	Classification of Expression Patterns Using Artificial Neural Networks Markus Ringnér, Patrik Edén, Peter Johansson	201
12	Gene Selection and Sample Classification Using a Genetic Algorithm and $k$ -Nearest Neighbor Method Leping Li and Clarice R. Weinberg	216
13	Clustering Genomic Expression Data: Design and Evaluation Principles Francisco Azuaje and Nadia Bolshakova	230
14	Clustering or Automatic Class Discovery: Hierarchical Methods Derek C. Stanford, Douglas B. Clarkson, Antje Hoering	246
15	Discovering Genomic Expression Patterns with Self-Organizing Neural Networks Francisco Azuaje	261
16	Clustering or Automatic Class Discovery: non-hierarchical, non-SOM Ka Yee Yeung	274
17	Correlation and Association Analysis Simon M. Lin and Kimberly F. Johnson	289
18	Global Functional Profiling of Gene Expression Data Sorin Draghici and Stephen A. Krawetz	306
19	Microarray Software Review Yuk Fai Leung, Dennis Shun Chiu Lam, Chi Pui Pang	326
20	Microarray Analysis as a Process Susan Jensen	345
	Index	361

Preface

In the past several years, DNA microarray technology has attracted tremendous interest in both the scientific community and in industry. With its ability to simultaneously measure the activity and interactions of thousands of genes, this modern technology promises unprecedented new insights into mechanisms of living systems. Currently, the primary applications of microarrays include gene discovery, disease diagnosis and prognosis, drug discovery (pharmacogenomics), and toxicological research (toxicogenomics).

Typical scientific tasks addressed by microarray experiments include the identification of coexpressed genes, discovery of sample or gene groups with similar expression patterns, identification of genes whose expression patterns are highly differentiating with respect to a set of discerned biological entities (e.g., tumor types), and the study of gene activity patterns under various stress conditions (e.g., chemical treatment). More recently, the discovery, modeling, and simulation of regulatory gene networks, and the mapping of expression data to metabolic pathways and chromosome locations have been added to the list of scientific tasks that are being tackled by microarray technology.

Each scientific task corresponds to one or more so-called data analysis tasks. Different types of scientific questions require different sets of data analytical techniques. Broadly speaking, there are two classes of elementary data analysis tasks, predictive modeling and pattern-detection. Predictive modeling tasks are concerned with learning a classification or estimation function, whereas pattern-detection methods screen the available data for interesting, previously unknown regularities or relationships.

A plethora of sophisticated methods and tools have been developed to address these tasks. However, each of these methods is characterized by a set of idiosyncratic requirements in terms of data pre-processing, parameter configuration, and result evaluation and interpretation. To optimally design and analyze microarray experiments, researchers and developers need a sufficient overview of existing methodologies and tools and a basic understanding of how to apply them.

We believe that one significant barrier to the widespread effective and efficient use of microarray analysis methods and tools is a lack of a clear understanding of how such techniques are used, what their merits and limitations are, and what obstacles are involved in deploying them. Our goal in developing this book was to address this issue, by providing what is simultaneously a design blueprint, user guide, and research agenda for current and future developments in the field.

As design blueprint, the book is intended for life scientists, statisticians, computer experts, technology developers, managers, and other professionals who will be tasked with developing, deploying, and using microarray technology including the necessary computational infrastructure and analytical tools.

As a user guide, the book seeks to address the requirement of scientists and researchers to gain a basic understanding of microarray analysis methodologies and tools. For these users, we seek to explain the key concepts and assumptions of the various techniques, their conceptual and computational merits and limitations, and give guidelines for choosing the methods and tools most appropriate for the analytical task at hand. Our emphasis is not on a complete and intricate mathematical treatment of the presented analysis methodologies. Instead, we aim at providing the users with a clear understanding and practical know-how of the relevant methods so that they are able to make informed and effective choices for data preparation, parameter setting, output post-processing, and result interpretation and validation. For methodologies where free software exists we will also provide practical tips for obtaining and using the tools.

As a research agenda, this volume is intended for students, teachers, researchers, and research managers who want to understand the state of the art of the presented methodologies and the areas in which gaps in our knowledge demand further research and development. To this end, our aim was to maintain the readability and accessibility of a textbook throughout the chapters, rather than compiling a mere reference manual. Therefore, considerable effort was made to ensure that the presented material, which stresses the applied aspects of microarray analysis, is supplemented by rich literature cross-references to more foundational work.

Clearly, we cannot expect to do justice to all three goals in a single book. However, we do believe that we have succeeded in taking useful steps toward each goal. In doing so, we hope to advance the understanding of both the methodologies and tools needed to analyze microarray data, and the implications for future developments of microarray technology and its support technologies.

The design and subsequent analytical examination of microarray experiments rests on the scientific expertise of the experimenters, their knowledge of the relevant microarray technology and experimental protocols, and their understanding of analysis methods and tools. The available machinery of microarray analysis methods ranges from classical statistical approaches, to machine learning techniques and to methods from artificial intelligence. Hence, the preparation of this book must draw upon the experts from many diverse subfields in mathematics and computer science. In developing this volume, we have assembled a distinguished set of authors, each recognized as an authority in one or more of these fields. We have asked these authors to present a selected set of state-of-the-art methodologies and tools for analyzing microarrays from a highly practical, user-oriented perspective, emphasizing the how-to aspects of the presented techniques. To support the research agenda of this book, we have also asked the authors to identify where future developments are likely to take place and to provide a rich set of pointers to theoretical works underpinning the presented methods. The result, we hope, is a book that will be valuable for a long time, as summary of where we are, as a practical user guide for making informed choices on actual microarray analysis projects, and as roadmap for where we need to go in order to improve and further develop future microarray analysis technology.

This book contains one introductory chapter and 19 technical chapters, dealing with specific methods or class of methods. As illustrated in Table 1, the technical chapters are roughly grouped into two broad categories, namely data preparation and exploratory data analysis respectively. Partitioning the chapters into these areas largely mirrors the current state of the art in the field. Different protocols, experimental conditions, analysis goals, data complexity, and sources of systematic variation in microarray experiments normally require different ways for selecting and preparing the raw data obtained from the detection devices. These methods range from missing value imputation and normalization to feature subset selection and data integration. Collectively, we refer to these methods as data preparation or pre-processing techniques. Once the final format for the data is achieved, data exploration or analysis can commence. This part of the data analysis process is referred to as exploratory data analysis. Typical exploratory analysis tasks include classification (or class prediction), clustering (or automatic classification), correlation and association analysis, and others.

As much as possible, the chapters are presented in an order that reflects the overall data analysis process. In Chapter 1, we provide an introduction to microarray analysis with the aim of (a) providing an easy-to-understand description of the entire process, and (b) establishing a common terminology. First, we recapitulate the biological and technological background of microarray hybridization experiments. This includes the main types of arrays that exist, aspects of their protocols, and what kind of quantities they are measuring. Second, we categorize the classes of questions life scientists hope to answer with microarray experiments, and what kind of analytical tasks they imply. Third, we describe the entire process from the inception of a scientific question or hypothesis, to the design and execution of a microarray experiment, and finally to data preparation, analysis, and interpretation. We then discuss some of the conceptual and practical difficulties the experimenter faces when choosing and applying specific data analysis techniques. The remaining chapters are intended to shed more detailed light on these issues.

Table 1. Roadmap to the content of the book.

Part	Topic	Chapter#
	Introduction: Overview of microarray analysis process	1
Pre-processing	Foundations, issues, and methods	2
	Missing value imputation	3
	Error handling and normalization	4
	Singular value decomposition, principal component analysis	5
	Feature selection: established and recent techniques	6
Classification	Statistical foundations and methods	7
	Bayesian networks	8
	Support vector machines	9
	Weighted flexible compound covariate method and decision trees	10
	Artificial neural networks	11
	k-nearest neighbor and genetic algorithms	12
Cluster Analysis	Overview and review of some methods	13
	Hierarchical clustering methods	14
	Self-organizing maps	15
	Other non-hierarchical methods	16
Other	Correlation and association analysis methods	17
	Functional interpretation analytical results	18
Tools	Systematic review of free and commercial software	19
	Managing microarray data analysis: workflow and process	20

Chapter 2 addresses the issue of data pre-processing in microarray analysis in general. It is written for the newcomer to this field and explains the basic concepts and provides a useful vocabulary. It discusses the motivation for normalization, data centralization, data re-scaling, and missing value imputation. This chapter represents an introduction to the Chapters 2 to 5.

Chapter 3 presents three different methods for missing value imputation in microarray data. This includes a k-nearest-neighbor approach, a method based on singular value decomposition, and row averaging. Practical guidelines are presented for using publicly available free software tools.

Chapter 4 discusses various sources of errors in microarray data, and then proceeds with a detailed discourse on normalization. In contrast to Chapter 2, the focus is on mathematical considerations.

Chapter 5 is concerned with a major problem in microarray data analysis – the so-called large-p-small-n problem also known as the curse of dimensionality. This refers to the fact that for many microarray experiments the number of variables (genes) exceeds the number of observations (samples) by a factor of 10, 100, 1000, or more. Feature selection and dimension reduction methods refer to techniques designed to deal with this “curse”. The chapter discusses the use – and misuse – of singular value decomposition and principal component analysis.

Chapter 6 is a survey of several important feature selection techniques used to ward off the curse of dimensionality. First, it presents classic filter and wrapper approaches and some recent variants of explicit feature selection. Second, it outlines several feature weighting techniques including WINNOW and Bayesian feature selection. Third, towards the end, the chapter describes some recent work on feature selection for clustering tasks, a subject that has been largely neglected.

Chapter 7 discusses statistical issues arising in the classification of gene expression data. This chapter introduces the statistical foundations of classification. It provides an overview of traditional classifiers, such as linear discriminant analysis and nearest neighbor classifiers, in the context of microarray analyses. The general issues of feature selection and classifier performance assessment are discussed in detail.

Chapter 8 looks at Bayesian networks for the classification of microarray data. It introduces the basic concept of this approach, and reports on a study where the performance of Bayesian networks was compared with other state-of-the-art classifiers.

Chapter 9 describes a classification method that has been gaining increasing popularity in the microarray arena – support vector machines (SVMs). It provides an informal theoretical motivation of SVMs, both from a geometric and algorithmic perspective. Instead of focusing on mathematical completeness, the intention of this chapter is to provide the practitioner with some “rules of thumb” for using SVMs in the context of microarray data. Finally, pointers to relevant, publicly available free software resources are given.

Chapter 10 reports on a recent case study of gene expression analysis in lung cancer. The authors describe the weighted flexible compound covariate method for classifying the microarray data. They also demonstrate how this relatively new method is related to decision trees.

Chapter 11 deals with a widely used machine learning technique called artificial neural networks (ANNs). The authors describe the application of ANNs to microarray classification task. They discuss how a principal component analysis, cross-validation and random permutation tests can be employed to improve and evaluate the predictive performance of ANNs. The problem of extracting important genes from a constructed ANN is also addressed.

Chapter 12 represents the last chapter on classification. It presents the k-nearest-neighbor strategy and genetic algorithms for classifying microarray data. It discusses the general motivation and the concepts of these methods, and demonstrates their performance on microarray data sets. The authors provide references to publicly available free software resources.

Chapter 13 provides an overview of the major types of clustering problems and techniques for microarray data. It focuses on crucial design and analytical aspects of the clustering process. The authors provide some important criteria for selecting clustering methods. Furthermore, the chapter describes a scheme for evaluating clustering results based on their relevance and validity (both computational and biological).

Chapter 14 addresses hierarchical clustering methods in the context of microarray data. The discussed methods include hierarchical clustering methods, including adaptive single linkage clustering, a new method designed to provide adaptive cluster detection while maintaining scalability. Furthermore, the chapter provides examples using both simulated and real data.

Chapter 15 presents self-organizing maps (SOMs) for clustering microarray data. It discusses question such as: How do these models work? Which are their advantages and limitations? Which are the alternatives? In answering these questions, this chapter constitutes a rich source of practical guidelines for using SOMs to analyze microarray data.

Chapter 16 examines a number of non-hierarchical clustering algorithms for microarray analysis, namely cluster affinity search technique, the famous k-means technique, partitioning around medoids, and model-based clustering. The chapter puts emphasis on the practical aspects of these algorithms, such as guidelines for parameter setting, the specific algorithmic properties, and practical tips for implementation.

Chapter 17 addresses correlation and association analysis methods. It addresses questions that should help the user to assess the limitations and merits of these methods, such as: How to statistically measure the strength between two variables and test their significance? What is correlation, what is association? Which conclusions do correlation and association analysis allow in the context of microarray data?

Chapter 18 discusses the global functional interpretation of gene expression experiments. After a researcher has found differentially expressed genes using one of the above described methods, he must face the challenge of translating his results into a better understanding of the underlying biological phenomena. This chapter shows how this can be achieved.

Chapter 19 provides an overview of both publicly available, free software and commercial software packages for analyzing microarray data. The aim of this review is to provide an overview of various microarray software categorized by their function and characteristics. This review should be a great help for those who currently consider obtaining such software.

Finally, Chapter 20 describes the microarray data analysis from a process perspective, highlighting practical issues such as project management and workflow considerations.

The book is designed to be used by the practicing professional tasked with the design and analysis of microarray experiments or as a text for a senior undergraduate- or graduate level course in analytical genetics, biology, bioinformatics, computational biology, statistics and data mining, or applied computer science. In a quarter-length course, one lecture can be spent on each chapter, and a project may be assigned based on one of the topics or techniques discussed in a chapter. In a semester-length course, some topics can be covered in greater depth, covering more of the formal background of the discussed methods. Each chapter includes recommendations for further reading. Questions or comments about the book should be directed to the editors by e-mail under dp.berrar@ulster.ac.uk, w.dubitzky@ulster.ac.uk, or granzow@4T2consulting.de. For further details on the editors, please refer to the following URL:

<http://www.infj.ulst.ac.uk/~cbbg23/interests.html>.

Daniel Berrar

Werner Dubitzky

Martin Granzow

Index

A

accuracy, 42, 68, 69, 71, 72, 295, 302
activation function, 207 adaptive single linkage clustering, 246 adjusted Rand index, 280, 286
affinity, 277
Affymetrix, 78, 82, 88, 160, 307, 310, 313
alien sequences, 57
all-pairs, 181, 182
alternative polyadenylation, 327 alternative promoter usage, 327 alternative splicing, 327
analysis of variance, 59
ANN. See artificial neural network annotation software, 341
ANOVA. See analysis of variance
AP. See all-pairs application data, 44
application set, 27, 44
Apriori algorithm, 297, 301, 302
array profile, 22, 23, 28, 32 artificial neural network, 201, 215 association, 37, 40, 42, 43, 45, 289, 290, 292-298, 300-304 association rules, 294, 297, 303
Audi and Claverie's test, 316 audit trail, 89, 346, 349, 350
auditability, 345
average linkage clustering, 246, 250, 253 average linkage hierarchical clustering, 133

B

backward elimination, 112
bagging, 355
Bayes classifier, 159, 161
Bayes decision rule, 197
Bayes rule, 138, 139, 140
Bayesian belief networks. See Bayesian network
Bayesian feature selection, 111, 125, 129
Bayesian information criterion, 285
Bayesian network, 120, 150, 151, 153, 154, 156-163
Bayesian optimal classifier, 126 best-first search, 112

bias, 50-52, 54, 57, 59, 77, 78, 80, 84- 86, 88, 136, 143-145, 148 bias-variance trade-off, 144
BIC. See Bayesian information criterion biclustering, 234
binomial distribution, 313, 314
bioinformatics, 91
black holes, 53
blessing of smoothness, 167, 184
Bonferroni correction, 217
boosting, 146, 148
bottom-up, 246, 252

C

calibration, 208, 210
CART. See Classification And Regression Tree
CAST. See cluster affinity search technique category utility, 128
CCM. See compound covariate method cDNA, 9, 10, 14, 15, 18, 46, 51, 52, 56, 132, 133, 136, 148, 187, 200, 267 cell-cycle data, 96, 97, 100, 103 centralization, 55, 56, 57, 58, 60, 61
chaining effect, 251, 252
Chebychev metric, 240, 243
cheminformatics, 348, 357 chi-square, 294, 297 chi-square test, 314-316
chromosome, 219, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226 classification, 100, 106, 110, 113, 114, 118, 119, 122, 124, 125, 127, 128, 132, 133-139, 141, 142, 143-148, 150-154, 157-163, 166-168, 174-177, 179-185, 201-203, 205-215
Classification And Regression Tree, 66, 142 198
Classification Rule with Unbiased Interaction Selection and Estimation, 198.
classification task, 40
classification tree. See decision tree classifier, 134-138, 140-146, 202, 206, 210, 211
CLICK algorithm, 129
cluster, 133, 135, 230-243, 274, 277-282, 284, 287 cluster affinity search technique, 274, 277

- clustering, 103, 105, 106, 110, 111, 127-129, 186, 196, 199, 230, 231, 233, 235, 238, 242, 274, 282
- clustering task, 41
- codebook, 181, 182
- coefficient of variation, 87
- committee, 159, 210, 212, 213
- compactness, 232
- complete linkage clustering, 246, 250, 252
- compound covariate method, 186, 188, 192, 193, 199
- comprehensive software, 330, 331, 333, 334, 341
- confidence, 13, 30, 34, 42, 175, 181, 182, 295-297
- consensus trees, 244
- contingency table, 293-296
- continuous, 99, 103, 106, 112, 114, 128
- control, 11
- convex admissible, 235
- correlation, 36, 41, 96, 100-103, 107, 290-294, 299, 300, 303
- correlation coefficient, 276, 278
- covariance, 81, 127, 140, 219, 248, 251
- coverage, 42, 295, 302
- cross-validation, 43, 44, 119, 120, 122-124, 141-146, 202, 204, 209-214
- curse of dimensionality, 110, 167, 184
- Cy3, 8, 29
- Cy5, 8, 29
- D
- DAG. See directed-acyclic graph
- data filtering, 47, 49, 61, 62
- data inspection, 47, 60, 61
- Data inspection, 60
- data mining, 294, 297
- data transformation, 47, 59
- decision rule, 118, 126
- decision surface, 209
- decision tree, 118, 150, 158, 161, 354, 355
- dendrogram, 250-259
- dependence tree, 120, 121
- DHP. See Direct Hashing and Pruning
- diagonal linear discriminant analysis, 140
- diagonal quadratic discriminant analysis, 140
- DIC. See Dynamic Itemset Counting
- differential display, 7
- dimensional reduction, 202
- dimensionality reduction, 95, 105, 330, 331
- Direct Hashing and Pruning, 297
- directed-acyclic graph, 152
- discretization, 117, 154
- discriminant analysis, 133, 134, 135, 139, 141, 146
- dissimilarity, 275, 276, 279
- DLDA. See diagonal linear discriminant analysis
- DNA, 48, 58
- double self-organizing map, 268
- DQDA. See diagonal quadratic discriminant analysis
- Dunn's index, 232, 238
- dyes, 8, 29, 51, 56, 57, 59
- dye-swap, 78, 85, 86, 89
- Dynamic Itemset Counting, 297
- E
- early stopping, 211
- eigenarray, 94
- eigenassays, 94, 96, 98, 100, 102
- eigengenes, 67, 68, 71, 74, 94, 95-101, 103, 104
- eigenvalues, 67, 69
- eigenvector, 127
- elbow, 98, 103, 104
- EM. See expectation maximization
- empirical error, 174
- entropy, 115, 128, 129, 189
- epochs, 208, 210, 211, 271
- ESTs. See expressed sequence tags
- Euclidean distance, 67, 141, 189, 193, 220, 248, 264, 276, 278
- exons, 5
- expectation maximization, 68, 156, 284
- experimental study, 298
- experimenter bias, 77
- explicit feature selection, 111
- expressed sequence tags, 327
- expression profile, 16, 21, 22, 28, 36, 40, 92, 95, 96, 100, 105
- extension/accessory software, 330
- external criterion analysis, 280
- F
- false positive, 217
- false positive rate, 190
- fast self-organizing feature map, 268
- feature reduction, 217

- feature selection, 110, 111, 113, 119, 122, 124-126, 128, 129, 134, 136, 141-143, 145, 146
- feature weighting, 111
- feed-forward network, 201
- figure of merit, 281
- filter, 111, 112, 118, 122, 123, 142, 176
- filtering, 49, 61, 62, 63
- Fisher's exact test, 314-316, 338
- fitness, 219, 222-224
- fluorescent, 53
- FOM. See figure of merit
- forward selection, 112
- FP-growth, 297
- FPR. See false positive rate
- G
- GA. See genetic algorithm
- Gaussian distribution, 112, 114
- Gaussian kernel, 173, 183
- Gaussian maximum likelihood discriminant rule, 139
- Gaussian mixture model, 282
- Gaussian quadratic classifier, 123
- GCS. See growing cell structures
- gene profile, 16, 21, 23, 35, 37, 40
- generalization error, 138, 143, 144, 174
- generalized linear model, 124
- genetic algorithm, 219
- genetic risk group, 302
- Gibbs sampler, 126
- GLIM. See generalized linear model
- global normalization, 81
- gradient descent algorithm, 208
- Gram-Schmidt orthogonalization, 93
- group average linkage clustering, 250
- growing cell structure, 234, 269
- growing self-organizing map, 269
- GSOM. See growing self-organizing map
- H
- heterogeneity, 232, 235, 241
- heuristic-based clustering, 277, 280
- hidden layer, 206
- hierarchical agglomerative clustering, 246, 249
- hierarchical clustering, 52, 58, 62, 65, 133, 217, 232, 233, 236, 244, 246, 247, 250, 251, 259, 278, 284
- hill-climbing, 112, 120, 156
- hinge loss function, 173
- homogeneity, 281
- housekeeping genes, 57, 79
- hybridization, 2, 7-10, 12, 14, 26-28, 30, 34, 35, 39, 49, 51, 53, 58, 59, 61, 62, 77, 78, 80, 83, 85, 86, 88
- hypergeometric distribution, 313-315
- hyperplane, 168-170, 171, 172, 175, 176
- I
- IGG. See incremental grid growing neural network
- ill-posed problem, 167
- image analysis, 49, 54, 56, 61-63
- image analysis software, 328, 329
- image processing, 53, 77
- incremental grid growing neural network, 269
- induction, 110-112, 118, 129
- inductive bias, 119, 123
- Info Score. See mutual information scoring
- information gain, 114, 115, 117, 118, 122, 129
- input layer, 206
- intensity dependent methods, 83
- intensity independent methods, 81
- internal criterion analysis, 280
- Internet, 49
- intra-cluster diameter metrics, 232
- introns, 5
- isolation, 232
- K
- Kendall's tau, 291, 292, 293, 294, 299
- kernel function, 172, 173
- k-means, 65, 217, 233, 236, 261, 265, 274, 277-279, 284
- k-nearest neighbor, 179, 194, 217, 222
- KNN. See k-nearest neighbor
- KNNimpute, 66-70, 72-74
- Kohonen map. See self-organizing map
- Kohonen Self-Organizing Feature Map. See self-organizing map
- Kullback-Leibler divergence, 115
- L
- L<sub>1</sub> measures, 232
- Laboratory Information Management System, 339
- landing lights, 53
- large  $p$ , small  $n$ -problem, 137
- lattice machine, 42, 43
- LDA. See linear discriminant analysis
- learning, 110-112, 118, 119, 124, 125, 129, 201, 202, 209, 210, 215
- learning cycle, 264

- learning rate, 264, 265, 269
- learning set, 44, 135, 136, 138, 140, 141, 143-145, 216, 217, 220
- learning vector quantization, 139
- least squares estimates, 66
- leave-one-out cross validation, 161
- leave-one-out cross-validation, 45, 123, 124, 141, 144, 194
- leukemia, 110, 113, 115, 117, 118, 123, 160-163, 166, 174, 179, 180, 218, 234, 242, 243, 262, 265, 266
- lift, 145
- likelihood, 66, 113, 121, 155, 156, 158, 249, 250-252, 284, 285
- linear discriminant analysis, 140, 217
- locally weighted regression, 56, 57, 84
- log bases, 55
- logistic linear classifier, 123
- logistic regression, 139
- logistic regression classifier, 123, 124
- LOOCV. See leave-one-out cross-validation
- loss function, 137, 138, 146
- Lowess*. See locally weighted regression
- Lowess smoothing, 84, 85
- M
- M vs. A* plot, 57, 60
- M-A plot, 83, 84, 85, 86
- machine learning, 110, 111, 202, 234, 289, 299, 357
- macro-cluster, 271
- Mahalanobis distance, 140
- Manhattan metric, 240, 243
- margin, 167, 170, 171-174, 177, 179, 184
- market basket analysis, 294, 301, 303
- Markov blanket, 115-118, 122, 129, 158, 159
- Markov Chain Monte Carlo, 126
- matrix stability theory, 127
- maximum association algorithm, 302
- Maximum Entropy Discrimination, 126
- MDL. See minimum description length
- mean squared error, 207, 211, 212
- medoids, 279
- membership, 234, 241, 244
- metric variables, 290, 291, 292
- Metropolis-Hasting algorithm, 126
- MIAME, 48, 63
- Microarray, 47, 48
- Microarray Gene Expression Data Group, 319
- microarray software, 326, 339
- microarrayers, 20
- minimum description length, 156
- Minimum Information About a Microarray Experiment, 319, 331
- misclassification rate, 138
- missing value, 13, 28, 31, 32, 65
- mixture model, 114, 115
- MLP. See multilayer perceptron
- model application, 43, 44
- model construction, 2, 43, 44
- model validation, 43
- model verification, 43
- model-based clustering, 246, 248, 249, 250-252, 274, 277, 279, 282, 284, 285
- momentum coefficient, 208, 209
- monotone admissible, 235
- mRNA, 56, 57, 111, 133, 134, 136
- MSE. See mean-squared error
- multiclass, 180, 181, 183, 184
- Multidimensional Scaling, 108, 127, 130
- multilayer perceptron, 161, 206
- multivariate analysis, 52, 58
- mutual information, 154, 155
- mutual-information scoring, 187, 188
- N
- naive Bayes method, 139
- nearest neighbor, 66, 123, 134, 137, 139, 141, 142, 145, 146, 148
- nearest neighbors, 68, 70, 73, 74
- nearest shrunken centroids, 217
- near-optimal, 224, 225, 226
- near-optimal chromosome, 224, 226
- neural networks. See artificial neural networks
- neurone, 263
- niche, 221, 222, 224
- noise, 97
- noise-tolerant, 235
- noisy data, 74
- nominal variables, 290
- normality, 55, 61
- normalization, 54, 56-59, 76-89
- northern blots, 7
- NP-hard, 156, 157
- O
- observational study, 298
- oligonucleotide chips, 132, 133
- one-versus-all, 181
- ORDERED-FS, 122, 123, 129
- ordinal, 99, 106

- ordinal variables, 290
- orthogonality, 203
- output layer, 206, 207
- OVA. See one-versus-all
- over-expressed, 154, 155, 160
- overfitting, 44, 198, 207, 210, 211, 213, 285
- P
- paired-slide normalization, 85
- PAM. See partitioning around medoids
- partial derivative, 212
- partitioning around medoids, 274
- pathway, 308, 317-320
- pathway reconstruction software, 330, 338
- pattern recognition, 111, 217
- pattern-detection, 1, 40
- PCA. See principal component analysis
- Pearson correlation, 67, 128
- Pearson's contingency coefficient, 291, 293
- Pearson's product-moment correlation coefficient, 290, 291, 294
- Pearson's rho. See Pearson's product-moment correlation coefficient
- perceptron, 206, 207, 215
- permutation test, 178
- P-metric, 154, 160, 176
- point proportion admissible, 235
- Poisson distribution, 316
- polymerase chain reaction, 45
- population, 50, 219, 221
- Power, 50
- prediction set. See application set
- predictive modeling, 1, 27
- predictor. See classifier. See classifier. See classifier. See classifier. See classifier. See classifier.
- pre-processing, 47, 49, 61, 63, 77
- principal component analysis, 65, 91, 93, 127, 203, 214
- probe, 8-10, 12, 15, 18, 19, 26, 30, 31
- projection, 101-103, 107
- projection pursuit, 139
- protein, 48
- prototype, 263- 269
- Q
- QDA. See quadratic discriminant analysis
- quadratic discriminant analysis, 139, 140
- QUEST. See Quick, Unbiased, Efficient Statistical Tree
- Quick, Unbiased, Efficient Statistical Tree, 198
- R
- Rand index. See adjusted Rand index
- random error, 78
- random permutation tests, 202, 211
- randomization, 50, 51
- randomized inference method, 66
- ratio statistics, 87
- receiver operating characteristic, 159
- recursive feature elimination, 176
- recursive partitioning, 217
- reference, 10-14, 17, 34
- reference chip, 82, 88
- regression methods, 81
- regularization, 166, 173, 174, 183
- regulatory networks, 112, 299
- relevance machine, 42
- reporter molecules, 8, 11, 12
- re-scaling, 55, 58, 61
- residual effects, 50
- response function, 124-126
- reverse-engineering of the genetic networks, 300
- reverse-labelling, 51
- RFE. See recursive feature elimination
- RMS. See root mean squared
- RNA, 52, 56
- ROC. See receiver operating characteristic
- root mean squared, 68
- roulette-wheel selection, 222
- rule induction, 354
- S
- S2N. See signal-to-noise
- SAM. See significance analysis of microarrays
- Sample preparation, 77
- SANN. See self-adaptive and incremental learning neural network
- scalability, 247
- scanner settings, 77
- scatter plots, 100, 102
- scoring metric, 156, 160
- scree plots, 98
- search tree, 119-121
- second order polynomial kernel, 173
- self-adaptive and incremental learning neural network, 268
- self-organizing map, 66, 108, 217, 233, 333

- self-organizing neural network, 261
  - sensitivity, 159
  - separability score method, 301
  - separation, 281
  - sequence data, 48
  - serial analysis of gene expression, 7
  - signal-to-noise, 175, 176, 178
  - signature, 22
  - significance analysis of microarrays, 187, 188
  - significance threshold, 62
  - silhouette, 232, 237, 241-243, 281
  - similarity, 275-279, 281
  - simplified fuzzy ARTMAP, 234
  - single linkage clustering, 246, 247, 250, 251-259
  - single slide normalization, 83
  - singular value, 92, 93, 95, 96, 98, 99, 104
  - singular value decomposition, 65-67, 91, 214
  - singular value spectrum, 98, 99
  - smoothness, 167, 173
  - soft margin, 171
  - SOM. See self-organizing map
  - spatial effects, 77
  - Spearman's rho, 291-294, 299
  - specific analysis software, 330, 333
  - specificity, 159
  - spherical model, 279, 283, 284, 286
  - spiking controls, 57
  - splicing, 5, 6, 19
  - standardization, 145, 146
  - statistical design, 50
  - statistical software, 335
  - statistics, 111, 112
  - step size, 208, 209
  - subsymbolic, 43
  - sum of squares, 232
  - supervised learning, 111, 133, 135, 136, 217, 218
  - supervised network self-organizing map, 268
  - support, 42, 295, 296, 297
  - support vector, 172, 217, 218
  - support vector machine, 42, 43, 119, 126, 134, 161, 166, 167, 185, 202, 217
  - SVD. See singular value decomposition
  - SVDimpute, 66, 67, 68, 71, 72, 73
  - SVDPACKC, 107
  - SWISS-PROT, 318, 320, 322
  - symbolic, 23, 39, 43, 46
  - systematic error. See bias
  - systems biology, 94-96, 100, 233
- T
- TAN. See tree-augmented naive Bayes classifier
  - target, 5, 10-12, 14, 19, 34, 39
  - terminology, 47, 51, 55
  - test data, 43
  - test set, 44, 143-145, 211
  - Tikhonov regularization principle, 174
  - time series, 97, 104-106
  - top-down, 246, 252
  - top-ranked genes, 224-226
  - total intensity methods, 79
  - total least squares, 82
  - total risk, 138
  - toxicogenomics, 223
  - training, 111, 112, 114, 119, 121, 123, 125-127, 155, 156, 159, 160
  - training data, 43
  - training set, 44
  - transcriptional response, 92, 95-97, 100, 101-106
  - transformation, 54, 55, 58-61, 63
  - tree-augmented naive Bayes classifier, 159
  - t*-test, 187, 188, 190-192, 195, 199
  - Tukey's compound covariate, 217
  - Turnkey system, 330, 331
  - two-sample t-test, 217
  - type I error, 50
- U
- uncertainty, 244
  - under-expressed, 154, 155, 160
  - univariate mixture model, 113
  - unsupervised learning, 111, 127, 135, 136, 217
- V
- validation, 52, 54
  - validation data, 27, 43, 44
  - validation set, 27, 44, 45, 144, 208, 210, 211
  - variance, 136, 141, 143, 144, 148
  - variation, 47, 49, 56, 60
  - Voting Gibbs classifier, 126
- W
- Ward's method, 251
  - weight decay, 208, 209, 211
  - weight vector, 125
  - weighted flexible compound covariate method, 188, 193
  - weighted gene analysis, 187, 188, 200

D. Berrar, W. Dubitzky, and M. Granzow (Eds.), A Practical Approach to Microarray Data Analysis, Copyright 2002, Kluwer Academic Publishers, Boston/Dordrecht/London.

weighted voting average, 179

well-posed problem, 167

WFCCM. See weighted flexible

compound covariate method

WGA. See weighted gene analysis

Wilcoxon, 218

WINNOW, 111, 124, 125

work flow, 348, 349, 351, 353, 358, 359

wrapper, 111, 119, 122, 123, 128, 142, 176

Y

yeast, 50, 96, 104, 105, 262, 274, 278, 285, 286